APPENDIX A

Scoping Method

Mailing List.................................................................1
E-mail Distribution List ...............................................14
Project Flyer...............................................................16
Advertisements ...........................................................17
Project Website ..........................................................19
Project E-mail Address ...............................................20
Project Comment Form ..............................................21
Documents containing personal information have been removed from the document.
Please contact the project team with any questions.
We Want Your Input: Lemon Flats Second Access

Notice of Public Scoping Meeting Environmental Evaluation and Potential Wetlands and Floodplain Involvement

Who: The City and Borough of Juneau
When: Monday, May 21, 6:30pm to 9pm (presentation at 7pm)
Why: Public Scoping Meeting
Where: Dzantiki Heeni Middle School, Library

The City and Borough of Juneau (CBJ) Engineering Department is initiating a study to evaluate a second access into the Lemon Flats Commercial District (LFCD) to resolve the safety and congestion concerns associated with the existing access at Anka Street and Glacier Highway.

During this project, CBJ will evaluate traffic conditions, commercial access, and the environmental impacts of this project which may include work in wetlands floodplains and within the coastal zone. The recommendations of this study may result in right-of-way acquisition.

We want your input on the alignment options depicted to the right. If there is an option you think we should consider but haven’t, please let us know.

In order to become a part of the official scoping summary report, comments must be received by June 18, 2007. For more information, or to submit a comment, please contact:

Michele Elfers, Project Manager
Mail: CBJ Engineering Department, 155 S. Seward, Juneau, AK 99801
Phone: (907) 586-0931 Fax: (907) 463-2606
Email: secondaccess@dowl.com
www.juneau.lib.ak.us/engineering/ (Lemon Flats Second Access)
Gas or Groceries?

Convert your Junee Empire subscription to EZ Pay and receive your choice of a $10 gift card to Fred Meyer or Breeze-In.

Fred Meyer

May 18-27, 2007

Jazz & More

Specials Available

Get your tickets at JAZZANDCLASSICS.COM

0744154256

EZ Pay

Call 503-2222 or 503-2240 or visit ezpay.eastore.com to subscribe to EZ Pay today!

Lemon Flats Second Annual Environmental Scene Notice of Public Scoping Meeting

EPA Eastern Region Office, Anchorage

WASHINGTON — A coalition of environmental groups is pushing for a re-evaluation of the lemon-flavored soft drink, saying it is not environmentally friendly.

The groups are concerned about the environmental impact of producing and transporting the drink, which is made with a natural flavoring derived from lemons.

They say the drink is not as environmentally friendly as other beverages because it requires more energy and water to produce.

The coalition is seeking public comments to help inform its decision on whether to support or oppose a proposed reduction in the environmental impact of lemon-flavored soft drinks.

Concurrently, the coalition is working with the EPA to develop a comprehensive plan for reducing the environmental impact of all beverages.

The group’s goal is to reduce the environmental impact of all beverages by at least 50% by 2020.

Construction Notice

Construction Activity on Escan Drain for Sunny Point Intersection improvements during the week of 5/14-17 will include the following:

- Paving to be followed by more barrier placement with traffic signals at both terminals and outer lanes.
- Culvert work to begin at East Creek and Switzer Creek.
- Please continue to follow construction detour and traffic signals while traveling through the work zone.

The safety of the travelling public and our workers is our primary concern during this project. We apologize for any inconvenience.

Para information regarding the project’s progress, contact SECON office, (907) 700-5145.

Confidential: Attorney General Alberto Gonzales testifies on Capitol Hill Thursday in Washington before the U.S. House Judiciary Committee. Gonzales condemned the department’s independent counsel. "Contrary to being my patsy, the process is essentially fair-minded in terms of going forward," he said.

Gonzales repeatedly said he was not aware of any of the firings and denied that he instructed aides to carry them out. His only role, he said, was to certify that the firings were legal.

He said he has not been told by the White House that the firings were ordered by the Justice Department. Gonzales praised the work of U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft, whom he released in February.

Gonzales denied that Bush’s political advisor, Karl Rove, had asked Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., who used to be an exasperated. "The list of accusations has mushroomed, but the evidence is the one to fix it," Schiff told him.

And the Washington Post reported Thursday that Republicans sought to portray the firing of U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales as the attorney general’s idea.

"I don’t want to be a lawyer," Gonzales said Wednesday. "I want to be a lawyer," he said.

Gonzales contended the department’s independent counsel. "Contrary to being my patsy, the process is essentially fair-minded in terms of going forward," he said.

Gonzales repeatedly said he was not aware of any of the firings and denied that he instructed aides to carry them out. His only role, he said, was to certify that the firings were legal.

He said he has not been told by the White House that the firings were ordered by the Justice Department. Gonzales praised the work of U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft, whom he released in February.

Gonzales denied that Bush’s political advisor, Karl Rove, had asked Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., who used to be an exasperated. "The list of accusations has mushroomed, but the evidence is the one to fix it," Schiff told him.

And the Washington Post reported Thursday that Republicans sought to portray the firing of U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales as the attorney general’s idea.

"I don’t want to be a lawyer," Gonzales said Wednesday. "I want to be a lawyer," he said.

Gonzales contended the department’s independent counsel. "Contrary to being my patsy, the process is essentially fair-minded in terms of going forward," he said.

Gonzales repeatedly said he was not aware of any of the firings and denied that he instructed aides to carry them out. His only role, he said, was to certify that the firings were legal.

He said he has not been told by the White House that the firings were ordered by the Justice Department. Gonzales praised the work of U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft, whom he released in February.

Gonzales denied that Bush’s political advisor, Karl Rove, had asked Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., who used to be an exasperated. "The list of accusations has mushroomed, but the evidence is the one to fix it," Schiff told him.

And the Washington Post reported Thursday that Republicans sought to portray the firing of U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales as the attorney general’s idea.

"I don’t want to be a lawyer," Gonzales said Wednesday. "I want to be a lawyer," he said.

Gonzales contended the department’s independent counsel. "Contrary to being my patsy, the process is essentially fair-minded in terms of going forward," he said.

Gonzales repeatedly said he was not aware of any of the firings and denied that he instructed aides to carry them out. His only role, he said, was to certify that the firings were legal.

He said he has not been told by the White House that the firings were ordered by the Justice Department. Gonzales praised the work of U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft, whom he released in February.

Gonzales denied that Bush’s political advisor, Karl Rove, had asked Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., who used to be an exasperated. "The list of accusations has mushroomed, but the evidence is the one to fix it," Schiff told him.

And the Washington Post reported Thursday that Republicans sought to portray the firing of U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales as the attorney general’s idea.

"I don’t want to be a lawyer," Gonzales said Wednesday. "I want to be a lawyer," he said.

Gonzales contended the department’s independent counsel. "Contrary to being my patsy, the process is essentially fair-minded in terms of going forward," he said.

Gonzales repeatedly said he was not aware of any of the firings and denied that he instructed aides to carry them out. His only role, he said, was to certify that the firings were legal.

He said he has not been told by the White House that the firings were ordered by the Justice Department. Gonzales praised the work of U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft, whom he released in February.

Gonzales denied that Bush’s political advisor, Karl Rove, had asked Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., who used to be an exasperated. "The list of accusations has mushroomed, but the evidence is the one to fix it," Schiff told him.

And the Washington Post reported Thursday that Republicans sought to portray the firing of U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales as the attorney general’s idea.

"I don’t want to be a lawyer," Gonzales said Wednesday. "I want to be a lawyer," he said.

Gonzales contended the department’s independent counsel. "Contrary to being my patsy, the process is essentially fair-minded in terms of going forward," he said.

Gonzales repeatedly said he was not aware of any of the firings and denied that he instructed aides to carry them out. His only role, he said, was to certify that the firings were legal.

He said he has not been told by the White House that the firings were ordered by the Justice Department. Gonzales praised the work of U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft, whom he released in February.

Gonzales denied that Bush’s political advisor, Karl Rove, had asked Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., who used to be an exasperated. "The list of accusations has mushroomed, but the evidence is the one to fix it," Schiff told him.

And the Washington Post reported Thursday that Republicans sought to portray the firing of U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales as the attorney general’s idea.

"I don’t want to be a lawyer," Gonzales said Wednesday. "I want to be a lawyer," he said.

Gonzales contended the department’s independent counsel. "Contrary to being my patsy, the process is essentially fair-minded in terms of going forward," he said.

Gonzales repeatedly said he was not aware of any of the firings and denied that he instructed aides to carry them out. His only role, he said, was to certify that the firings were legal.

He said he has not been told by the White House that the firings were ordered by the Justice Department. Gonzales praised the work of U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft, whom he released in February.

Gonzales denied that Bush’s political advisor, Karl Rove, had asked Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., who used to be an exasperated. "The list of accusations has mushroomed, but the evidence is the one to fix it," Schiff told him.

And the Washington Post reported Thursday that Republicans sought to portray the firing of U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales as the attorney general’s idea.

"I don’t want to be a lawyer," Gonzales said Wednesday. "I want to be a lawyer," he said.

Gonzales contended the department’s independent counsel. "Contrary to being my patsy, the process is essentially fair-minded in terms of going forward," he said.

Gonzales repeatedly said he was not aware of any of the firings and denied that he instructed aides to carry them out. His only role, he said, was to certify that the firings were legal.

He said he has not been told by the White House that the firings were ordered by the Justice Department. Gonzales praised the work of U.S. Attorney General John Ashcroft, whom he released in February.

Gonzales denied that Bush’s political advisor, Karl Rove, had asked Rep. Maxine Waters, D-Calif., who used to be an exasperated. "The list of accusations has mushroomed, but the evidence is the one to fix it," Schiff told him.

And the Washington Post reported Thursday that Republicans sought to portray the firing of U.S. Attorney General Alberto Gonzales as the attorney general’s idea.

"I don’t want to be a lawyer," Gonzales said Wednesday. "I want to be a lawyer," he said.

Gonzales contended the department’s independent counsel. "Contrary to being my patsy, the process is essentially fair-minded in terms of going forward," he said.
WASHINGTON — The top Re- publican on the Senate commit tee investigating Attorney General Alberto Gonzales said Sunday he believes Gonzales could resign before a no-confidence vote sought this week by some Senate Republicans. Specter said he would not be surprised if Gonzales and Bush, who has long wanted Gonzales to resign, were "to work with Congress on legis- lation, as well as nominees who could be confirmed." Gonzales’ position was believed to be "insecure," Specter said, because "he cannot win a court case on the legality of firing a prosecutor." In that case, he said, Gonzales clearly did not have the "good faith" of the attorney general.

Yet Pennsylvania Sen. Arlen Specter, the ranking Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he believes "it’s possible" Gonzales could resign before a no-confidence vote sought this week by some Senate Republicans.

By JOHN W. MCNULTY

WASHINGTON — The top Re- publican on the Senate commit tee investigating Attorney General Alberto Gonzales said Sunday he believes Gonzales could resign before a no-confidence vote sought this week by some Senate Republicans. Specter said he would not be surprised if Gonzales and Bush, who has long wanted Gonzales to resign, were "to work with Congress on legis- lation, as well as nominees who could be confirmed." Gonzales’ position was believed to be "insecure," Specter said, because "he cannot win a court case on the legality of firing a prosecutor." In that case, he said, Gonzales clearly did not have the "good faith" of the attorney general.

Yet Pennsylvania Sen. Arlen Specter, the ranking Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he believes "it’s possible" Gonzales could resign before a no-confidence vote sought this week by some Senate Republicans.

By JOHN W. MCNULTY

WASHINGTON — The top Re- publican on the Senate commit tee investigating Attorney General Alberto Gonzales said Sunday he believes Gonzales could resign before a no-confidence vote sought this week by some Senate Republicans. Specter said he would not be surprised if Gonzales and Bush, who has long wanted Gonzales to resign, were "to work with Congress on legis- lation, as well as nominees who could be confirmed." Gonzales’ position was believed to be "insecure," Specter said, because "he cannot win a court case on the legality of firing a prosecutor." In that case, he said, Gonzales clearly did not have the "good faith" of the attorney general.

Yet Pennsylvania Sen. Arlen Specter, the ranking Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he believes "it’s possible" Gonzales could resign before a no-confidence vote sought this week by some Senate Republicans.
Engineering Director: Roger K. Healy, P.E.
Phone: 907-586-0800 - Fax: 907-463-2606

The Engineering Department is located at:
The Marine View Center
230 S. Franklin St., 3rd Floor
Juneau, AK 99801

All Mail for the CBJ Engineering Department should be sent to:
City and Borough of Juneau
Engineering Department
155 S. Seward St.
Juneau, AK 99801

GENERAL INFORMATION:
- The Engineering Department Mission Statement
- Divisions of the Engineering Department
- Staff Directory

LATEST NEWS:
- Current CBJ Projects Up For Bid
- LID 96 Assessment Roll
- Lemon Flats Second Access
- North Douglas Crossing of Gastineau Channel
- Bartlett Regional Hospital Behavioral Health Facility
- Capital Improvement Program - FY2008-2013 - Preliminary
- The New High School in the Mendenhall Valley
- 1988 JDCM Program - RFP E07-133
  - 1990 JDCM Floor Plan-1 – E07-133
  - 1990 JDCM Floor Plan-2 – E07-133
- Seward Street Reconstruction Photos
- Design & Installation of Public Art at Juneau Douglas High School - CFA E06-159
- Dimond Park Community Center
- Lemon Creek Sediment Transport and Hydrologic Study
- Bayview Sewer Improvements
- Civil Engineering Standard Specifications and Subdivision Improvements--Final--December 2003
- South Franklin Street Widening Presentation - 02/04
- Capital Improvement Project Cost Breakdown
The City and Borough of Juneau Engineering Department is initiating a study to evaluate a second access into the Lemon Flats Commercial District (LFCD). The second access would be designed to resolve the safety and congestion concerns associated with the existing access at Anka Street and Glacier Highway.

- Public Involvement Plan (PDF)
- Preliminary Alternative Routes Map (JPG)
- Public Scoping Meeting (PDF)
  - May 21, 2007 at Dzantiki Heeni School, Library 6:30 to 9:00 p.m.
- Public Scoping Presentation

In order to become a part of the official scoping summary report, comments must be received by June 18, 2007. For more information, or to submit a comment, please contact:

Michele Elfers, Project Manager
City and Borough of Juneau Engineering Department
155 S. Seward St.
Juneau, AK 99801
Phone: (907) 586-0931
Email: secondaccess@dowl.com
The Lemon Flats Commercial District (LFCD) is one of the fastest developing areas in Juneau. The single access into the LFCD is the Anka Street/Glacier Highway intersection. This existing access will not meet the projected traffic demand over the next 20 years and does not enable heavier commercial traffic to be separated from the pedestrian and light commercial traffic that also access this area. This project is intended to alleviate congestion at the Anka Street/Glacier Highway intersection and provide secondary access to the LFCD.
WE WANT YOUR INPUT ON THE OPTIONS DEPICTED.

________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________

To receive project information, please provide:

Name: ____________________________________________________________________________
Address:__________________________________________________________________________
E-mail:____________________________________________________________________________
Phone:____________________________________________________________________________

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Michele Elfers, Project Manager  ■  Mail: 155 S. Seward, Juneau, AK  99801
Phone: (907) 586-0931  ■  Email: secondaccess@dowl.com

www.juneau.lib.ak.us/engineering/ (Lemon Flats Second Access)

LEMON FLATS SECOND ACCESS

Michele Elfers, Project Manager
155 S. Seward,
Juneau, AK  99801